

Music to Enhanced's Ears

It is not often that a local IT company gets to work in conjunction with an international recording artist, but that is exactly what has happened to Enhanced who has just sold Access Dimensions to the financial team who support some of the most established and most up and coming internationally renowned artists in the music industry.

The artist's financial team has just agreed to purchase Access Dimensions, an advanced business system for the mid market, which will streamline and focus on capturing essential information required to manage their complex internal accounting systems. The new system will enable them to radically improve the way their management accounts are prepared due to its exceptional integration with Microsoft Excel and its fast and resilient application based around industry standard Microsoft SQL Server.

Enhanced, one of the south's leading specialists in business technology, based in Ferndown, is delighted to be working with such an exciting new customer. Enhanced, who was recently voted as one of the top three Accounting and Finance Resellers of the Year at the prestigious Software Satisfaction Awards, has just gone through an extensive rebranding exercise. 'It is amazing the positive response we have had since our rebranding,' says Mark Pollock, Customer Services Director for Enhanced. 'We have always been proud of the service, support and expertise that we can bring to a partnership and it is so rewarding that we are now being recognised nationally.'

Enhanced is one of a select group of companies chosen to be an Access Gold partner, and is proud to represent such a prestigious brand. Enhanced has the unique skill of configuring Access Dimensions and then working together with the client to ensure that their specific needs are met, however complex that maybe. Add to this their expertise in bespoke programming is winning Enhanced many new customers and enabling existing customers to refine or add to their existing accounting systems without massive on costs.

One thing is for sure, Enhanced has hit a high note by winning this new client, and is looking forward to helping them make more sweet music!
